AND THE WINNER IS... Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant Celebrates 5 Awards!

ATLANTA, GA – Pub lovers beware— Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant is back and better than ever— sweeping the charts with five wins from top Atlanta publications. Whether you are stopping in for a pint after work, enjoying an Irish whiskey cocktail on the rooftop patio, or dining on traditional Irish pub fares while watching the big game, there is no place better to relax. Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant, now located at 279 Buckhead Avenue in Atlanta, GA, has been a favorite hotspot for over a decade—and with accolades from Jezebel, The Sunday Paper, and AOL— Fadó is giving everyone that many more reasons to say “cheers.”

July 2008 brought more than scorching weather to Atlanta. In the July issue of Jezebel Magazine, Fadó appeared twice in the “One Hundred Best Restaurants 2008.” With homemade shepherds pie ready to dish out and overflowing Guinness on tap, Fadó was a top three pick for both “Best Neighborhood Pub” and “Best Happy Hour” in Atlanta. Also out in July, AOL’s top picks for the best of Atlanta, published in The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. AOL’s pick for “Best Bar” and “Best Irish Bar” both went to Fadó Irish Pub—voters must have not been able to resist the 14 beers on tap, 19 varieties of bottled beer, and wide selection of alcohols ranging from Bushmills Single Malt Whiskey to Dom Perignon Champagne.

“When we heard about the awards we won for 2008 we were thrilled,” said Brian Russell, General Manager of Fadó. “We have a great team at Fadó and this exemplifies how hard our staff works. We love what we do and always hope that our customers are having a great time—and the fact that we have the best pint and fish and chips this side of the pond doesn’t hurt either!” Russell added with a laugh.

The Sunday Paper’s “2008 Readers Choice” gave Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant an extra pat on the back with the title of runner-up for “Best Overall Bar.” With so many recent honors and unbeatable atmosphere, Fadó Irish Pub & Bar is just the place for drinks with friends; so drink up, be merry and celebrate—no matter what the occasion!

With many nightly drink specials and a perfect location, Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant has been Atlanta’s top destination any night of the week. Enjoy live Irish music every Monday, Pub Quiz trivia on Wednesday’s and countless sporting events on a daily basis including all games of the (EPL) English Premier League whose season starts this weekend. Recently, Atlantans enjoyed such events as the EURO 2008 Championships LIVE and now can even nightly replays for those who missed out. No matter what day it is head over to Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant for a great time. Pick your favorite pint and raise a glass to toast your favorite hangout—Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant!

About Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant

Fadó Irish Pub & Restaurant is a group of Irish pubs distinguished by their genuine Irish hospitality, quality and craic (Gaelic for good times). Fadó was formed by three Irish and Irish American entrepreneurs and opened on Peachtree in Buckhead in January 1996. The original Fadó in Buckhead closed in late October 2007. The new Atlanta Fadó opened to the public in March 2008. The new three-level venue was created in Dublin by the Irish Pub Company and was shipped to Atlanta during the winter of 2007.
