ATLANTA – Well underway in the heart of the city, Canopy by Hilton Atlanta Midtown released new hotel renderings after breaking ground earlier last year. The hotel – partially-owned and operated by Concord Hospitality, developed by Greystar and Whitman Peterson and designed by R2L:Architects – will offer guests traveling for both business and comfort the space, amenities, and service they desire.

Interior designers Krause Sawyer and commissioned Atlantan local artists will be showcased in the project. Three local artists, including Kevin Chambers, Ryan Coleman, and Emily Mann, will all be displaying unique and custom art throughout the Canopy hotel.

“The modern Atlantan was at the forefront of our mind during the whole design process,” said Chief Enthusiast Vincent Bucci. “We’re excited to expand to an area that has so much going on, but frankly was lacking in fresh accommodations for the ever progressive guests. I think people are going to be very pleased with the functionality, thought, and detail that went into every room.”

The 15-story hotel will feature 176 thoughtfully designed guest rooms with stunning city views and an additional four Canopy suites for those needing more space. Each room is fully equipped with luxurious amenities, including a Canopy exclusive gel memory foam bed with Serta Cool Balance® Technology. The cutting edge hotel will also feature a spacious Canopy Retreat where guests can work or relax; over 3,000 square feet of meeting space with spectacular skyline views, including a stunning terrace with fireplace; large fitness room with high-tech equipment; and inviting common spaces, market and curated café where guests can experience and indulge in all things Atlanta.

“Located in the dynamic and growing Midtown neighborhood, this hotel is a perfect fit for any and all guests during their next visit to Atlanta,” said Mark Laport, president and CEO of Concord Hospitality. “It has been a privilege to work alongside Greystar, Whitman Peterson and R2L:Architects to ensure that the Canopy by Hilton Atlanta Midtown is not only well-designed, sleek and modern, but also well-operated to meet the needs of all future guests.”

The design team lead by D.C based R2L:Architects worked closely with the city to create a pedestrian friendly streetscape at the 1414 West Peachtree Street NW, Atlanta, GA location. From stellar attractions like the Alliance Theatre and the High Museum of Art to hidden local gems, guests are just steps away from the vibrant neighborhood that surrounds them. Canopy by Hilton Atlanta Midtown is scheduled to open October 2018. For additional renderings, click here. Interviews are available upon request.
